The statistical data released by the Ministry of Energy indicated that consumption of gasohol as of April 2007 increased to 4 million liters a day and as of May 2007 rose to 4.2 million liters per day. However, both the public and private sectors are still trying to promote consumption on gasohol. Many have probably seen the campaigns through television, radio, or print media in boosting confidence toward the quality of gasohol which is the alternative fuel in Thailand originated by His Majesty The King's Initiative.
